China Products

Rapeseed Sales

The Sesamum Market

Soya Beans

THE market for China products has been characterised by a steadier tone, although there are few developments of importance in the way of price changes. A development of interest, however, is re-entry of Japan into the local market as a purchaser of rapeseeds, with sales to the extent of some 5,000 bag, reported at Tls. 5.00 per picul exgodown. Stocks of this products in Shanghai are light, and in all probability the appreciation in values might be rapid, as arrivals from the producing districts are falling off. There is no chance of any big trading developing in this offering until spot stocks are available, and with no definite advices as to when such a condition will likely exist business must necessarily be spotty. The cause for the stronger trend in rapeseeds is the unwillingness of the Japanese oil and cake mills to part with their oil at current prices. It is not known how much cargo in this respect was lost in the great fire of Yokohama and Tokio.

More inquiries for sesamum seeds continue to be received by local exporting houses from European consumers but business has been extremely difficult owing to the large gap existing between buyers' and sellers' ideas.

For sesamum seeds London buyers are at present offering £23 per ton cif London and £23.15 per ton for November-December shipment. The market in Shanghai is slightly better, the rate being Tls. 7.50 to Tls. 7.60 per picul ex-godown, which works out to £24 per ton.

U. S. DEMAND SLOW

Hankow also has been unsuccessful in making buyers and sellers prices meet. There is little definite information from that exporting center. The demand from January 1 to June 30 were The market in this product shows few signs of improvement but with a decline in exchange the probabilities are that a big trade will be consummated. At the moment the chances of doing business with Europe are killed.

Imports of soya beans are on a small scale. The crop in North Manchuria, from reports from that quarter, in spite of the flood in certain sections, will be normal and might very likely be in yield slightly better than an average crop. Conditions for the soya bean crop in the south of Manchuria also indicate good prospects. The damage done to the crop in this area by the rains in August caused prices both for the soya bean and soya bean oil to appreciate.

The United States has been purchasing in the Dairen market fair supplies of the bean, and it is expected that Europe will also re enter the market soon. The disastrous floods of the Yalu river are stated to have caused the holders of beans and beancakes in Antung some 60 to 70 percent of their holdings.

There has been no receding from the high price established for soya beans since the partial damage to the new crop of beans near Dairen. The damage done in August in that region might make the yield some 20 percent less than that garnered last season. From yen 4.96 the rate has climbed to yen 5.35 per picul and it is firm at this. A few thousand tons have been sold to Hamburg. Exports from Dairen from January 1 to June 30 were 404,912 short tons against 278,505 short tons in the same time last year. Exports of soya bean oil from Dairen for all destinations during the first half of 1923 were 79,520 tons against 49,763 tons in the same time last year

WOOD OIL STEADY

China wood oil is fairly steady at present level. The wood oil crop, of Szechuen which is the most important province for this product, is estimated to be slightly below normal. Shipments from Hankow are not heavy, and, according to some, there is no likelihood of any increase in shipments from Hankow to America. It is stated that much of the oil received in the Hankow market recently has been adulterated extensively. Shipments of wood oil during August from Hankow amounted to 4,350 tons, of which America took 1,727 tons, direct from that place, while from Shanghai a good deal must have been transhipped to America.

There is nothing doing in horsebeans. The market has been cleaned up of supplies.

Some business has been done in Tsingtao in peanuts in the new crop at the price of Tls. 22 per picul for export to Europe. There is nothing doing in Shanghai.

GREEKS FILE PROTEST ON DECISION OF AMBASSADORS

Not Responsible For Janina Slayings, Athens Says

FINE EXCESSIVE

Urge That Ruling Be Submitted To Hague Court

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 30.—Despatches from Athens report that it is semi-officially stated that the Greek Note, replying to the decision of the Conference of Ambassadors, was handed to the French Minister on September 29. The Note very strongly protests against the decision and disputes the allegation that the Greek officials failed in their duty.

It asserts that the general conviction is that the crime was committed by Albanian assassins whom it was impossible to apprehend in view of the proximity of Albanian territory. The reply complains that the penalty is excessive and urges the Conference to submit its decision to the Court of International Justice at the Hague.

Rome, Sept. 29.—It is announced that Signor Mussolini, with a view to demonstrating that the 50,000,000 lire has been obtained from Greece primarily as a political and moral punishment and not for material gain, has decided immediately to grant 10,000 lire of the award for the relief of Greek and Armenian refugees housed in Corfu and elsewhere in Greece.

Scientists Discover Eggs Laid By Mongolia Dinosaur Ten Million Years Ago

One Contains Embryo About To Hatch—Roy Chapman Andrews Reports On Year's Work

BY GROVER CLARK

A good many people in China have seen—or eaten—"thousand year" eggs. But, except for the members of the Third Asiatic Expedition, up until last Monday a small group of journalists were the only people in the world who ever had seen "ten million year" eggs. These eggs that the journalists were privileged to see had been laid by a variety of dinosaurs which some eight or ten million years ago roamed the upland savannahs of what is now Mongolia. They had been found—twenty-five practically complete eggs and a good deal of egg-shell—in the sand-stone formations at one of the places where the Expedition was working during the past summer. That they were dinosaur eggs seem incontrovertibly proven by the position in relation to the fossilized skeletons of the dinosaurs themselves. "Clutches" of from five to nine eggs were found, with the shells slightly cracked but with the form perfectly distinct. Egg shells were found in a good many other places, and single eggs were located.

And in one of these eggs was the embryo of a dinosaur just about ready to hatch!

MONGOLIA CENTER OF LIFE

The finding of these dinosaur eggs was perhaps the most spectacular result of the work of the Third Asiatic Expedition during the past summer, because no one had ever thought of the possibility of finding such things anywhere. But, according to Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn and Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who showed the eggs to and talked with the journalists, from a purely scientific point of view the most important result of the summer's work was the definite demonstration of the fact that the great Central Asiatic Plateau, of which Mongolia is a part, was the original center from which various forms of life spread to most of what is now Europe and America. There had been indications of this before—and on the basis of these indications Prof. Osborn as long ago as 1900 had predicted that an expedition into Mongolia would show that the mammalian as well as the reptilian forms spread from this region. But there had been no conclusive proof. It was one of the purposes of the Expedition to find such proof if possible. Ample proof has been found, both Prof. Osborn and Mr. Andrews stated.

The Expedition spent its first summer of work—1922—in making a general somewhat hasty reconnaisance of the possible fossilbearing areas of south-eastern and central Mongolia. A good many places which seemed to be potentially very rich in fossils were located, but little was done of actual intensive investigation—though even as it was results were secured which startled the scientific world. During the summer just past seven of the places

BODY OF NAVY MAN IS FOUND IN WHANGPOO

American Chief Petty Officer Apparently Victim Of Drowning

An unidentified Chief Petty Officer in the United States Navy was found drowned in the Whangpoo river yesterday and up to a late hour last night who he was and how he came to his tragic death remained a mystery which U.S. Marshal Thurston E. Porter and the River Police were still attempting to solve.

The body was found late Sunday afternoon floating in the river off the Nantao Bund by a Chinese charitable organisation which has for its motive the picking up of the bodies of the numerous Chinese who drown in the river each year. The body was taken to the foreshore and the river police notified.

Captain Mellows of the River Police immediately went to the scene and upon examination found $245 in the dead man's pockets. He could find no marks that would point toward foul play.

THE INQUEST

American Coroner Nelson E. Lurton was notified and opened an inquest yesterday afternoon before a jury composed of Mr. H. W. Brooke, Mr. C. J. Doughty, Mr. A. S. Glenby, Mr. A. G. Henderson, Mr. P. A. Sergeant, and Mr. J. C. Upson.

Dr. A. H. Swan testified that he had found no marks of any kind upon the dead man and that he had probably met his death by drowning. There appeared to be no grounds for any suspicion of foul play, he said.

No identification marks of any kind were discovered on the body. The man was dressed, however, in the uniform of a Chief Petty Officer, U.S.N., and wore three stripes on his sleeve which indicated that he had served three enlistments in the Navy.

There are seven United States destroyers in port at the present time in addition to the flagship Huron and Marshal Porter, Capt. Mellows and the Naval officials began late yesterday to conduct an inquiry and check up all men who are missing or on leave from any of the vessels. The inquest will be continued at 9:30 o'clock this morning, when sailors from the various ships will appear in an attempt to identify the dead man, who apparently had been in the water three or four days.

Shanghai Red Cross Unit Praised For Work Done In Japanese Quake Zone

A letter of sincerest appreciation for the work done by the Shanghai American Red Cross relief unit for refugees in Japan has been received here by Major Arthur Bassett from Mr. Ralph G. E. Forster, British Consul-General at Kobe and chairman of the Earthquake Relief Committee there.

Also just received by the chairman of the local Red Cross Committee is a final comprehensive report on the activities of the unit, made by Dr. Morris Booth Miller, who was in charge. The unit, consisting of four doctors and twelve nurses, returned to Shanghai by the steamer President Jackson.

Following are the text of the letter of appreciation and of Dr. Miller's report:

Dinner Dances Featured As Closing Order Goes Into Effect

The various Shanghai cafe managements, bowing to the edict of the authorities that they shall close their establishments at 1 a.m., except on Saturday nights, last night inaugurated generally a new policy of entertainment—going in for dinner dance programs and other features to appeal to the early evening crowd and induce erstwhile late comers to advance their amusement schedules.

Far from being discouraged by the new regulation, the cafe managers appear to be further extending themselves in the matter of affording the public entertainment, while at least two new establishments are being added to the city's list.

The "Winter Garden," formerly the Old Carlton, opened up last night, with a good crowd and good music, auguring for its popularity. Announcement also has been made that Maxim's, on Avenue Edward VII, will shortly be re-opened.

A feature which appears to be making a strong appeal is that adopted by many cafes of furnishing dancing partners to patrons, either free or at a small cost per dance.

CHARGE SAILOR ROBBED MAN AT NAVY "Y"

Huron Gob Asserts He Played Role Of Good Samaritan

William Garden, a sailor of the U.S.S. Huron, flagship of the Asiatic fleet, was charged with [illegible] before Judge [illegible] Commissioner in the United States Court for China yesterday afternoon after he had been held for trial in the higher court at a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner Nelson E. Lurton in the morning.

Garden was prosecuted by U. S. District Attorney Leonard G. Husar on the charge that on Sunday night he had 'rolled' George Grushka, a Czecko-Slovak chief engineer on a boat now in port, in the doorway of the Navy Y.M.C.A. and robbed him of his watch and chain, cigarette case, and $14.

Garden pleaded not guilty and asserted that he had merely taken the property for safe-keeping because Grushka was so drunk he was unable to take care of himself.

District Attorney Husar called Detective Sergeant Henry, Sergeant Beer, and Chinese Police Sergeant 804, who testified as to the facts. The Chinese Sergeant said he was on duty in front of the 'Y' at 4 o'clock Sunday morning when he saw a foreigner lying drunk in the entrance to the building. In a few minutes he said a sailor came up in a ricsha, went to the prone man, and attempted to lift him to his feet. When he was unable to do so, the sergeant testified, he went through the man's pockets.

INDENTIFIES SAILOR

"Who was this sailor?" Mr. Husar asked.

The Chinese policeman pointed at Garden.

As soon as he saw that the sailor was robbing the man he said, he went over to him and placed him under arrest. The sailor, however, refused to go with him, and he called another policeman. After a little struggle they induced the sailor to go with them as far as Nanking Road. There, he said, the sailor again put up a fight and he had to get two more policemen to help him get Garden to the Central Police station.

Sgt. Beer testified that when Garden had been brought to the station it had taken four policemen. The sergeant, he said, had called him twice on the telephone for more help. When Garden came in, he testified, he had said, "Well, I've been caught. Take the goods off me."

Mr. Grushka testified that he had gone ashore to have a good time and had taken several drinks at Frederick's Hotel. After that, he said, his head started going round and round and he did'nt remember anything until he came to at the police station. He was hazy as to what had occured during the night but did not remember giving any of his property to anyone to keep for him. He

ELLIS ISLAND CHARGE DENIED BY SECY. DAVIS

American Cabinet Official Replies To Geddes' Criticism

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Washington, Oct. 1.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today made public a letter which he had written to Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio in which he defends the system of handing immigrants to America at Ellis Island and refutes the criticisms made recently by Sir Eric Geddes, British ambassador to the United States.

Secretary Davis declares that if the British would issue passports in accordance with American laws, no British subject would ever be made to undergo any inconveniences.

Bills will be presented at the opening of the next session of congress to compel the shipping companies to provide a place for the maintenance of immigrants until they are accepted, the secretary continues, and in the event that they become law the government will be no longer need to maintain the immigration station at Ellis Island.

CAPTAIN MORTON, FORMER RESIDENT, DEAD AT MANILA

Well-Known And Popular Hotel Manager Dies After Long Illness

His many friends in Shanghai learned with a shock of sincerest regret yesterday of the death in Manila last Saturday of Captain Henry E. Morton, former managing director of the Shanghai Hotels Company and, previous to that, one of the best known and most popular "skippers" of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

Captain Morton, who was 53 years of age, had been in ill health for more than a year and had recently undergone several operations, but it was thought here that his condition had considerably improved.

Captain Henry Ellington Morton was born in Ireland and first went to sea in sailing ships. He captained a sailing ship to the United States and there later became a naturalised American citizen. Subsequently he joined the old Pacific Mail Steamship Company and became captain of the steamer Mongolia, plying on the Far Eastern run. As skipper of the Mongolia he made a host of friends in the Orient and was one of the most popular captains ever in the trans-Pacific service. After leaving the Pacific Mail he was made master of the Duc de Montpensier's yacht Mekong, and started on a world cruise which was interrupted by the war.

The Mekong was in the East at the time of the siege of Tsingtau and assisted in that phase of the war, afterward being taken over by the French Government for war service.

Captain Morton helped to establish the Shanghai firm of marine surveyors of Morton and Reeves, now the firm of Eisler, Reeves and Murphy. He then became managing director for the Shanghai Hotels, a post which he held for some years, retaining an interest in the surveying firm.

Following his departure from Shanghai Captain Morton established the marine surveying firm of Morton and Ericsson in Manila, in which he was interested at the time of his death.

In June 1917 Captain Morton married Miss May Free, popular Shanghai girl, daughter of Mr. J. H. Free, of the China Import and Export Lumber Company, and Mrs. Free, who survives him. Mrs. Morton and her mother are at present in Portland, Oregon.

Captain Morton, who passed through Shanghai on his way to Manila from America only recently, was a Scottish Rite mason and a member of the Elks order.

CLASH HALTS BIG RALLY OF SEPARATISTS IN RHINELAND

Many Are Injured As Panic Strikes Huge Crowd

BERLIN BLAMED

French Assert Trouble Was Started By German Police

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 30.—Twelve thousand Rhineland Separatists demonstrated at Duesseldorf today in the presence of a crowd of 45,000 persons. They marched in procession to the square, shouting in favor of separation. When speeches were about to begin, fisticuffs developed among the crowd and shots were fired from behind the iron shutters of a shop. The crowd were panic-stricken and a number of them were wounded. Many women and children were trampled underfoot. The square was speedily emptied. The railway station is besieged by masses of frightened people seeking to leave the town.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 1.—Despatches from Duesseldorf report that 4,000 separatists re-formed and proceeded to the station, where a Roman Catholic priest Father Kremers, in a rousing speech, denounced Berlin is terroristic measures against the movement. The city is now quiet. The arrested police have been lodged in the station cells under military guard with fixed bayonets. An enquiry has been opened to ascertain why the police intervened in disobedience of the orders of the occupation authorities.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 1.—Four police and 12 separatists were killed and a large number wounded at Duesseldorf as a result of a conflict in which the police charged a big body of demonstrators, who had journeyed to the city by special trains with the expected object of proclaiming a Rhineland Republic. It is reported that French troops in armored cars intervened after the police charge and arrested them.

The German version adds that the demonstrators marched through empty streets. The public generally complied with the trade union request to absent themselves as a protest. Many of the demonstrators were armed, having disarmed "Green" policemen along the route.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 1.—Independent accounts from Duesseldorf are uncertain as to who were the first aggressors but there are strong indications that they were Communists who were known to have been determined to break up the meeting of separatists and started firing. The separatists replied wildly.

It is doubtful if the police fired at the mob although they were targets of attack. The most horrible incident was the fate of two policemen who were disarmed by French troops. They fell into the hands of separatists and were beaten to death with lead pipes.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 30.—Reports from Germany state that Separatists and Communists came into collision (at Duesseldorf) today and nine persons were injured. The Schultzpolizei removed notices posted by the Communists announcing a meeting which was prohibited by the Municipality. The French arrested Communists miners who were exciting the populace against the troops. In the course of a demonstration of 12,000 Separatists at Hindenburgwall, who in spite of the prohibition held a meeting, shots were fired which occasioned a violent riot, resulting in an indescribable panic of the crowd, which was estimated at 40,000. It is reported that large numbers of people were injured.

The Government of the Reigh has notified the French and Belgian Ambassadors of the annulation of the ordinances suppressing reparations prestations.

The newspapers denounce the manoeuvre of Dr. Von Kahr in dissolving and disarming Socialist organisations and in depriving the Republican burgomaster of Nuremberg of his office. The Berling Tageblatt demands that the Reich shall intervene with the proclamation of a so-called state of siege against the coup d'etat of the Right, which conceals other ends.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 30.—A French despatch from Duesseldorf suggests that imported German plainclothes policemen were responsible for the breaking up of the separatist demonstration. It asserts that they mingled with the crowd and started a disturbance, whereupon uniformed police fired on the demonstrators, many of whom were wounded. They were picked up by French ambulances. The police-barracks are full of wounded. It is reported that some of the demonstrators were killed.

Detachments of French troops and gendarmerie afterwards occupied the police barracks and arrested the police there.

Bavarians Hail Former Royalty

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 1.—The situation in Bavaria shows signs of bubbling over in consequence of the defiant attitude adopted towards the Reich. Dr. von Kahr's suspension of the executive regulations based on the Reich's martial law decree is highly resented in Berlin and is condemned as illegal. The Berlin press is calling on Dr. Stresemann and the cabinet to act firmly and uncompromisingly.

There was a significant incident at Munich yesterday on the occasion of the visit of the former Crown Prince Rupprecht to unveil a war memorial in the presence of 20,000 soldiers. Prince Rupprecht and his wife were not only attended by Dr. von Kahr, who is a staunch monarchist, but by the Premier, Dr. von Knilling, and General Lossow who is the Reich's own dictator at Munich.

The former Crown Prince was greeted with thunderous shouts of 'Long live King Rupprecht, long live the Queen.' Dr. von Kahr further angered the Central Government by repressing and disarming Socialist organisations who oppose restoration of the monarchy in Bavaria.

(Reuter's Service)

Munich, Sept. 30.—It is officially announced that the Reich laws for the protection of the Republic are no longer operative in Bavaria.

Poincare Sees No Solution Yet

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 30.—Unveiling a war monument at Bois d'Ailly, M. Poincare said that Germany was daily giving fresh proofs of her failure to understand the Reich proclaiming the necessity of ceasing passive resistance in the Ruhr. She was seeking to cover her retreat by a discharge of blank ammunition, but when the Reich contested the legality of the occupation of the Ruhr and accused the French and Belgians of oppressing and maltreating the inhabitants it was an audacious inversion of roles.

The Reich was attributing to the French and Belgians crimes perpetrated against the French and Belgians by the late German Government's orders. France must therefore remain on her guard. The Berlin Government could not do otherwise than end resistance in the Ruhr. It was no longer able to finance resistance and it knew that it ran the risk of separating the local populations from the Reich. But the grudging proclamation was inevitable. A truce meant nothing; execution was everything.

"We are waiting for Germany to act. She has given up laying down conditions. Good! But it now behoves her to show us that she is really prepared to facilitate for us in the occupied territories the development of the pledges seized. If Germany asks us to withdraw the measures taken, which we consider indispensable to our security or the payment of reparations, if she has any "arriere pensee" that she may receive from us concessions in exchange for mere words of resignation, we shall not have advanced towards a detente.

The moment has therefore not yet come to consider our task ended. Tomorrow's work will be more difficult than what we have accomplished.

I do not doubt that public opinion will continue to sustain by its clear sightedness and sangfroid the French Government's resolve to obtain peace and justice. France has not yet secured the victory which the treaties guaranteed her, but she will secure it. We have sworn it and we shall keep our oath."

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Sept. 30.—In a speech at the unveiling of a war memorial at Bois D'Ailly today, M. Poincare enumerated of the sufferings endured by the people of the devasted districts during the war and declared that they were still reduced to a miserable existence until the necessary reparations had been obtained, while Germany confessed that she had sent 10,500 trillions in a fortnight to finance resistance. He denounced the inversion of roles which Germany was bringing about and the obligation which her attitude forced upon the Allies, to be on their guard.

M. Poincare emphasised the morose tone of President Ebert's proclamation, and on conclusion said: "The allies expected Germany to prove by her action that she is disposed to facilitate for them the exploitation of the pledges seized. Germany must not hope that she will be able to exchange mere words for new concessions."

The Minister of War, M. Maginot, speaking at Clermont today declared that after abandoning resistance Germany must pay. This was the second battle to be won and might take time and effort, but France would win it as she did the first. The Government would not content itself with a half victory or an incomplete peace.

Rear-Admiral K. Nomura, newly appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Squadron on the Yangtsze River, accompanied by Commander T. Sugisaka, Japanese naval agent in Shanghai, arrived here yesterday morning on board the s.s. Kumano Maru. It is expected that Rear-Admiral Nomura will proceed shortly to Hankow where he will relieve Rear-Admiral K. Kobayashi, who was recently appointed a member of the Admirals' Council.

the new regime with a special carnival night, and from the looks of things at what the proprietors describe as "the livest spot in Shanghai" the casual visitors would have thought that this particular cafe was celebrating a new year instead of a new "reform" wave.

The Del Monte, as already announced, intends to specialise in dinners, with entertainment, and guests last night enjoyed the first of these special dinners. It really was a fine dinner, too, with all the flavor left in the chow. The food, in addition to being tasty, was capably served, reaching the tables hot.

Victor Galvin, the French chef at Del Monte, is now in his element and if last night's effort is a sample of what he intends to do the Del Monte will soon be the most popular eating place in the city.

Numerous large parties gathered at the Del Monte for dinner, and all appeared to be having a fine time. The entertainment features, which continued throughout the evening, with the grand ballet at eleven o'clock, were bright and snappy and served to keep the crowd in a good mood.

From all appearances the new ruling will have no effect on Del Monte's popularity, unless to increase it, judged from last night's showing.

The new, non-intoxicating drink, "The Del Monte Cup," made a big hit with last night's patrons, and as for the thirtyfivedancing girls, they had a big evening. All were dolled up in new bibs to say nothing of newtuckers.

KEARNEY ARMS CASE ENDS IN AMERICAN COURT

Impossible To Take Admiral Tu's Deposition Now

The trial at which Capt. L. D. Kearney is charged with conspiracy in the importation of arms and ammunition from Russian ships at Woosung ended in the United States Court for China yesterday when the prosecution put on their last rebuttal witnesses. A decision by Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier in the case will be held up, however, pending the taking of the deposition of Admiral Tu, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese Navy, a vital witness for the defense, who is at present in Peking. It is not expected that his deposition can be taken for two weeks.

Col. Yaron, representative of Admiral Stark, commander of the so-called 'portless fleet' of Russians from whom Kearney is alleged to have purchased the arms and munitions, was the first witness called by the defense. Col. Yaron testified concerning a conference concerning the confiscation of two Russian tugs on January 5, which was attended by two officials of the Chinese Navy, Major C. P. Holcomb, Captain Kearney and Admiral Stark. The tugs, he said, were to be taken by the Chinese Navy and held at Nanking until the new Russian government was recognised.

RECOGNISED

Mr. C. S. Franklin, Kearney's attorney, then introduced a document showing that the defendant in this case had styled himself the representative of the Chinese Navy at the conference and had been so recognised by Admiral Stark and Col. Yaron. Mr. Husar objected and Judge Lobingier reserved his decision.

In answer to questions Col. Yaron said Admiral Stark had told him that all arms aboard must be confiscated by the Chinese authorities, but that he had sold one automobile.

"Did Admiral Stark ever say how much had been paid for the arms?"

"They were not sold. They were confiscated."

Mr. Husar then called rebuttal witnesses concerning Captain Kearney's statement that he had never seen Mrs. Horowitz until she came into court to testify.

Mrs. Sarah Horowitz said that two or three days after Christmas Captain Kearney had called at her home on North Honan Road and she had gone to Woosung with him and Admiral Stark. At Woosung, she said, they went aboard the s.s. Baikal and—she doing the interpreting—Kearney had asked Stark how much munitions he had aboard his vessels. They stayed on board for two hours, she said.

George [illegible] Mayer also testified that he had seen Mrs. Horowitz at Woosung that day, he having gone down at Kearney's instructions in a motor boat as there was no room in the motor car.

Mr. Horowitz also testified that his wife had gone to Woosung to act as interpreter to Kearney and Stark.

The case was then adjourned.

ASK RECEIVER FOR COMPANY IN U.S. COURT

120 Workmen, Andersen, Meyer, And Bank Join In Request

Major C. P. Holcomb, representing a Russian named Trotzky, and 84 Chinese and 34 Russian employees of the American Manufacturing Company, a small foundry business, yesterday asked Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier to appoint a receiver to take charge of the company's affairs so as to conserve the resources for the creditors.

Major Holcomb explained that the company was in financial trouble and that the 120 employees, who had not been paid for some time, had marched to the police station in a body, might make trouble, and at any rate should be guaranteed their pay.

Mr. Walter Chalaire, representing the two largest creditors, Andersen, Meyer and Company for Tls. 14,000 and the American-Oriental Bank for $14,500, joined with Major Holcomb in asking receivership, explaining that the two concerns had been attempting to keep the company going but that through poor management the affairs had gone from bad to worse. With a competent receiver in charge they felt that the company's affairs could be straightened out so that no one would lose anything, he said. Both Major Holcomb and Mr. Chalaire suggested that Mr. John S. Potter of Andersen, Meyer, be named receiver. Judge Lobingier took the matter under advisement pending the straightening out of a legal technicality.

CHARGE RUSSIAN WITH ATTEMPT TO MURDER WIFE

Alexander Lunafeyon Accused Of Attacking Spouse With Knife

Charges of attempted murder will be brought against a Russian named Alexander Lunafeyon who appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday after having slashed and stabbed his wife with a knife at 446 Taku Road Sunday night.

A foreign police constable testified before Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li yesterday that on Sunday night he was patrolling Yates Road when a Russian named Ishenoff came up to him and told him that a murder was being committed at the address given. The constable hurried to the Taku Road house, where he found Mrs. Lunafeyon covered with blood, which was flowing from a number of knife wounds. Ishenoff, when questioned, said that the wounds had been inflicted by the woman's husband, who was then in the house next door. The constable bandaged the woman's wounds and summoned a doctor and then took Lunafeyon into custody. He said he questioned his captive as to the whereabouts of the knife and was told that it was in the house next door. Going there, he found the weapon wrapped up in a jacket.

The charge placed against Lunafeyon was that of causing injury to his wife and Sub-Inspector Mills stated to the Court that it would have to be changed to one of attempted murder.

The case was adjourned for hearing before the Senior Consul's Assessor next Friday.

The wounded woman was removed to hospital and is expected to recover.

WORLD'S RECORD COLLECTION

The result was what Prof. Osborn called a world's record in the securing of fossils. Seventy-two dinosaur skulls and twelve complete skeletons were located, taken out and packed for shipment to the United States—besides the eggs mentioned above and many other specimens. Many remains of mammalian life were found and extensive collections obtained.

One of the striking results of the summer's work was the securing of fossilized skeletons of an ancestral herbivorous form of dinosaur—the Protoceratops andrewsi (named for Mr. Andrews) in all stages of its growth from the embryo in the egg to the fully-matured animal which was some twelve feet in length. No such compete record of the life-stages of any dinosaur has ever before been found.

PECULIARLY FAVORABLE

And not only that, but never before have any but the most meager details of the life history of the land-living primitive reptiles been available. The sea and shore-living animals have been fairly well known because their remains have been preserved. But in no other part of the world have conditions been as favorable to the preservation of the fossils of certain types of land-living reptiles as in Mongolia. And this, in the opinion of Prof. Osborn, is in many ways the greatest feature of the discoveries in Mongolia—here, not only for the first time but on a large scale, have been found the remains as the Early Cretaceous life on a great continental upland surface.

The preservation of these remains here seems to be due to two main causes. One is the fact that this region for the last eight or ten million years has been comparatively dry, so that there were no large streams to wash away the fossil bearing rocks. The other is that the rocks were formed from sand and dust deposited by the wind instead of by streams. Consequently the bodies of the dead animals were buried without being crushed or torn to pieces. This is the explanation of the fact that such delicate things as the dinosaur eggs were found here.

GREATEST FOSSIL FIELD

And Mongolia not only is the oldest continent in which terrestrial deposits have been preserved, but there is in Mongolia an enormous extent of such deposits which remain untouched. Mr. Andrews—who, last year and this, went over a good deal of the ground—said that there were literally thousands of square miles of country which there is every reason to believe is extraordinarily rich in fossil remains of animal life from the very earliest reptilian forms to the comparatively recent mammals. It is one of the world's greatest fossil fields.

In response to a question, Mr. Andrews explained how the fossil-bearing rocks lie. He made the comparison with a layer cake. Seen from on top, it is impossible to tell what the cake contains. But if the cake be cut, the different layers are apparent. A large part of Mongolia, he said, is like a gigantic layer cake, with the fossils scattered through like raisins and different layers containing the remains of life at different periods. The cake has been cut at many places by the wind or by small streams, leaving more or less sheer bluffs on the sides of which the different layers are visible to the eye of the trained scientist. Near the bottom is the dinosaur layer. Further up is the layer of mammalian remains—remains of animals that developed long after the dinosaurs had died out.

So far most of the work of the Expedition has been done in the earlier layers containing the more primitive forms of dinasaurs. But Dr. Osborn ventured the prediction that a thorough investigation of the deposits in Mongolia would bring to light the complete "continuity" from these earliest reptilian forms at least down to the more primitive forms of the highest types of mammals, including man.

PRIMITIVE MAMMAL FORMS

It is on the basis of what already has been found that Prof. Osborn expressed the belief that the second and third purposes of the Expedition would be fulfilled, as the first one has been. The first purpose, as has been said, was to prove that Mongolia was the center of the distribution of living forms. The second is to find the primitive forms of the higher mammals like man and the horse. The third is to get further light on the remote ancestry of man; to find the specific kind of mammal from which he developed.

But whether these things all are accomplished during the five years for which the Expedition was organised (the summer just passed marked the second year of work), the results so far have far more than justified the time and effort and money. In speaking of these things, Dr. Osborn gave high praise to Mr. Andrews, Two things, he said, were largely responcible for the success so far: the very notable care in the organisation of the Expedition and the fact that the men who had been secured had been working for some time previously in similar country in the western part of the United States. Mr. Andrews, on his part, declared that the principal credit for the results must go to the men who formed the Expedition; that not only were they highly qualified experts but they had shown a remarkable spirit of co-operation and devotion to the task. His part, he said, had been simply to run around looking after details; these others had done the real work. And, he added, no small part of the results were due to the encouragement and support given by Dr. Osborn.

The party this year consisted of twenty-six men: eight Americans nine Chinese and nine Mongols, five motor cars were used: two trucks and three small cars including one touring car. There was a supporting caravan of seventy camels which carried in the gasoline and food necessary and carried out the fossils.

MUCH INGENUITY

An illustration of the ingenuity which was shown in meeting the problems is given by the methods used to save hauling supplies. The gasoline for the motors and the food was taken in wooden cases. The fossils when found were packed and shipped out in these same cases. Thus the problem of getting wood for the packing was solved—which was a real problem since there is no wood to be had in the parts of Mongolia where the Expedition was working.

But even more ingenious—and distinctly amusing—was the solution of the problem of packing material. Camels wool was used for this—wool plucked from the camels of the caravan. When these beasts went in the spring their wool was long and thick. As the weather became warmer this wool was pulled out and used to pack the fossils, the amount taken at one time being regulated by the need of the moment and the temperature.

And that the work of such an Expedition is not always play was illustrated by the experience this year. There had been practically no rain since a year ago in one of the regions where the Expedition was working. The result was that water and grass for the camels was very scarce. Consequently, in one instance, the camel caravan did not get through when planned, and food supplies ran short. For some time the members of the Expedition were forced to live on a diet of meat alone, eked out by a very small quantity of oatmeal. Their greatest need, Mr. Andrews said, was for sugar.

And yet this experience furnished an illustration of the spirit of the members of the Expedition. When the supplies began to run short, there was half a sack or so of flour left. The question arose of whether this should be eaten or used for making the paste for packing the fossils. Mr. Andrews put it up to his colleagues to decide. Without the slightest hesitation they all voted for using it for the fossils even though it meant having nothing to eat but meat.

NINE TONS OF FOSSILS

As a result of the summer's work, over nine tons of fossils were taken out and prepared for shipment to the United States. There were 1,000 separate specimens, including the dinosaur skulls, skeletons and eggs already mentioned.

Because of the great amount of material found—far exceeding the expectations—it has been decided that no work will be done in Mongolia next summer. The members of the Expedition will return to the United States, where the year will be spent in getting into shape and arranging the fossils already secured. The following year another trip into Mongolia will be made.

MONGOLIAN SUPPORT

One particularly pleasant feature of the work, of which Mr. Andrews spoke with much appreciation, was the cordial support and co-operation which the Expedition had received from the Mongolian authorities. Last year there was some hesitation, owing to the uncertainty of the Mongols as to the purely scientific character of the Expedition. This year all these doubts had disappeared, and not only were no obstacles placed in the way of the work, but much assistance was given.

The foreign members of the Expedition this year were: Mr. Roy Chapman Andrews, Leader and Zoologist; Mr. Walter Granger, Paleontoligist; Mr. Charles P. Berkey, Geologist; Mr. Frederick K. Morris, Geologist and Topographer; Mr. J. B. Shackelford, Photographer; Messrs. George Olsen, Peter Kaisen and Albert Johnson, Assistants in Paleontology, Mr. Clifford Pope, Assistant in Zoology; Messrs. J. Mackenzie Young and C. Vance Johnson, Motor Transport Experts.

The Expedition itself is officially "The Third Asiatic Expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, in co-operation with the American Asiatic Association and Asia Magazine." Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the American Museum of Natural History, played a large part in the organisation of the Expedition, and he came out to China late in the summer to get a first-hand view of the conditions under which the Expedition was working. While the Expedition was getting out fossils at Erhlien, Mr. Andrews came in to Peking to meet Prof. Osborn and take him to the fossil fields in the central Gobi desert. The visit of such a distinguished scientist and educator both to China and Mongolia, where he has had an opportunity for first-hand observation, is an event of international importance.

LU FETES SOLONS; RAPS TSAO KUN FOR AMBITIONS

Says He Has Scheme To Relieve Crisis When Time Comes

Over 120 Shanghai parliamentarians were guests at a tiffin given on Sunday at his yamen by General Lu Yung-hsiang, Director of Military Rehabilitation of Chekiang. Civil Governor Chang Tsai-yang and other high officials of the provinces were also guests.

In the course of his speech, General Lu did not mince words in condemning the Chihli militarists and declaring his own policy in national movements.

After expressing his appreciation of the opportunity of meeting the solons in a body when the latter were returning to Shanghai after seeing the Hangchow shore, General Lu made a brief survey of his connection with Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and General Tsao Kun, which relationship, General Lu said, was not clearly understood by the public.

"People regard me as a member of the Tuan clique", said Lu, "I have never denied this. I first served under Tuan for four months. After an intermission, I again served under him as a battalion commander for one year. Again people regard me an anti-Chihlite, I admit that. But I had served Tsao for a total period of six years. If length of service should have anything to do with faith and loyalty, I should belong to the Chihli party, but I do not, because of good reasons.

"During the great revolution in Wuchang, Marshal Tuan circulated a telegram urging the Manchu household to abdicate long before the armistice. If he had been courageous enough to do this, it is questionable whether the establishment of the Republic could have been accomplished so easily. When Yuan Shih-k'ai started his monarchical restoration, the public was intimidated, he refused to endorse the scheme despite the fact that his own life was threatened. The national life was endangered when Chang Hsun inaugurated his movement to restore the Baby Emperer to the throne. But Marshal Tuan initiated his campaign against him from Machang, Chihli, and succeeded in averting a disastrous catastrophe.

"I respect him. I honor him, because he is a man of high ideals and has accomplished a lot for the country. I follow him no matter whether he is successful or not.

"However, in reviewing the career of Tsao Kun, I fail to find any act worthy of great commendation. I cannot discover merit in his service. Therefore, my six years' connection with him has impressed me less than the one year and four months I had with Tuan.

"Moreover, I am not a man to be influenced by sentimental reasons. The public knows that I am opposed to the election of Tsao as president. But really I don't oppose his appointment. I am opposed to the manner in which he tries to have himself elected. If Parliament had elected him with a clear conscience and through legal processes, I should be the first to congratulate him. On the other hand, if Marshal Tuan had resorted to the same methods as those being adopted by Tsao to have himself elected to the presidency, I would oppose him just as much. So my opposition to Tsao is engendered out of a spirit of justice and not for personal reasons. If he is elected. I shall oppose him and I am sure the public will endorse my stand in the matter."

In conclusion, General Lu expressed his belief that the presidential election in Peking would probably fail altogether. Or, if it succeeded, that it would have no leg to stand on. The director said he had already formulated a plan to relieve the situation, which he was not in a position to disclose at present, but which would be carried out when the time is opportune.

Chang Chi, former Speaker of the House, responded and paid a tribute to General Lu for his stand for justice in all national affairs. The parliamentarians returned to Shanghai by special train yesterday at noon.

SUN YAT-SEN SAYS HE WILL ATTEND HOTUNG PARLEY

Southern Leader Promises To Be Present In Person

Assurance from Sun Yat-sen that he will attend in person at the proposed round table conference of China's leaders to endeavor to bring about the consolidation of the country has been received by Sir Robert Hotung from Canton.

The Generalissimo's letter to Sir Robert, under date of September 29, reads as follows:

"In reply to your inquiry, I adhere to my promise personally to attend proposed conference wherever and whenever convened if other principal leaders will meet me to consider and devise means to settle present grave state of the nation.

"A situation is under development which threatens the complete disintegration of the state as a governing institution. This can only be arrested by some act of statesmanship expressed in terms of a national settlement by consent between the men who, by the course of events and in virtue of the power now wielded by them, are responsible at this moment for the security and welfare of the nation. In default of such a settlement, I foresee a degree of political anarchy which may cause China to relapse into barbaric rule under a brutal soldiery.

The Chinese Chambers of Commerce of Nanking and Hangchow and the Native Bankers' Association of Tanyang District have informed Sir Robert Hotung that they all heartily support the round table conference.

Mass Meeting For Saturday

A mass meeting to oppose the prolongation of the term of the present Parliament and the election of Tsao Kun as the next president will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The place of the meeting will be announced later, according to the decision of a number of local organisation at a meeting held yesterday.

had never seen the sailor before, he said.

GOOD SAMARITAN

Garden, on the stand in his own defense, denied he had robbed Grushka. He said he had been out late and had gone to the Navy 'Y' to sleep until it was time for him to go back to his ship. Entering the 'Y', he said, he had found the drunken foreigner lying there. He attempted to get him to his feet, he said, but was unable to do and then he called on the Chinese policeman to help him. They got out of the doorway, he continued, and then, because he was fearful that someone would rob the man, he had, in front of the policeman, taken the man's watch and chain, cigarette case, and what money he had.

The hour was so late, he continued, that he then decided to go back to his ship and was arrested by the policemen when he attempted to do so. He intended giving the valuables back, he said, but in cross examination by Mr. Husar did not explain why he had started for the ship with the money rather than turn it over to, or make a report to the police.

Garden denied that he was intoxicated and also denied that he had assaulted the police when they tried to arrest him. He had protested against being arrested, he said, but had not struck any of them.

Judge Lobingier took the case under consideration until this afternoon when it is possible the defense will produce some character witnesses.

Shanghai Tennis Stars Again Defeat Hongkong In Doubles And Singles

Toussaint And Canavarro Vanquish Omar And Herbert Rumjahn, While Wade Proves Too Much For The Visiting Captain; Next Games Tomorrow

The second meeting of Shanghai and Hongkong tennis teams at the Majestic Hotel courts yesterday afternoon resulted in another victory for the homesters in both matches.

In the singles John Wade vanquished S. Rumjahn, captain of the visiting team, in straight sets, 6—3, 7—5 and 6—2.

The Shanghai Doubles team, Canavarro and Toussaint, were equally successful in disposing of their Hongkong opponents, O. and H. Rumjahn, 6—2, 7—5 and 6—2.

Although the scores were lop sided there was some good tennis on both courts, particularly in the doubles. In several instances the games went to deuce and in numerous volleys the play was fast. The Rumjahn boys gave a wonderful exhibition of backhand play, that being their greatest strength. Both were rather weak in service, usually putting the first ball into the net and lobbing the second one over for an easy return by the Shanghai men.

Both Canavarro and Toussaint were in excellent form and both gave beautiful exhibitions of tennis. Canavarro was particularly good at the net and both he and his partner allowed but few lobs to get away from them.

In the second set the visitors got away to a flying start, piling up a three game lead almost before the local men knew what was happening. Toussaint and Canvarro quickly braced, however, and were masters of the situation from that time on.

In the singles game Wade was easily superior to the Hongkong player, his play being up to midsummer standard. He was particularly strong on placements, keeping the visiting captain so much on the run from one side of the court to the other that he soon tired.

As in the doubles game there was some fine volleying in the singles match, both players negotiating some really wonderful gets and returns. Both men played the baselines almost continuously.

It was announced at the conclusion of the play yesterday that for the Interport games of Wednesday the Shanghai Selection Committee had nominated W. Okada, the Japanese player, to meet Omar Rumjahn, and Messrs. Lock Wei and J. Elmore to meet S. A. and Herbert Rumjahn in the doubles match.

SARAZEN WINS 'PRO TITLE' IN GREAT MATCH

Defeats Hagen At 38th Hole By Making Wonderful Recovery

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 29.—Gene Sarazen today won the American Professional Golf Championship, defeating Walter Hagen in the final at the thirty-eighth hole.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 30.—The final of the American Professional Golf Championship yesterday was followed by thousands of people.

The match bristled with thrills from beginning to end. The only hole lead secured during the morning round was by Hagen, but Sarazen finally evened up the match, securing a birdie three at the eighteenth.

In the afternoon Sarazen gained an early lead of three but Hagen evened finally. At the thirty-eighth both tried to carry over trees and out off a curve. Sarazen fell short in rough grass and Hagen in a sandpocket on the far side of the green. Sarazen made a wonderful recovery to within two feet of the hole. While Hagen took two to get out of the trap, Sarazen holed with a putt for a birdie.

operated in Japan; they came not only with their personnel, but with supplies and sufficient funds which they used unstintingly in carrying out their work without adding any additional burden on this Committee.

Again assuring you of this Committee's deep appreciation of your assistance, I am,

Yours respectfully,
RALPH G. E. FORSTER.
Chairman, Earthquake Relief Committee.

REPORT OF WORK

Following is Dr. Milier's report on the work of the unit:

On Board s.s. President Jackson.
September 27, 1923.

Arthur Bassett, Esq.,
Chairman China Central Committee,
American Red Cross.

Dear Major:—I have been submitting to you in detail reports covering various phases of the work of the Shanghai Unit at Kobe as it progressed from day to day. At this time I propose to give you a summary of our various activities during our two weeks of actual service. I shall also give you some statistical data which may be of interest for reference. The facts submitted are substantially correct but the figures are only approximate. Accurate data could only have been secured by clerks, which were not available, and would have slowed up the work in caring for the sick and injured refugees, which would have been undesirable.

1. The Unit arrived at Kobe on September 12. That afternoon our nurses relieved all the overworked volunteer nurses at the Emergency Hospital, Oriental Hotel. In addition one nurse was detailed to the International Hospital, one nurse was assigned to visiting nurse service, and two nurses took full charge of the Emergency Maternity Hospital. The details of duty were as follows: 1 nurse (night duty) International Hospital; two nurses Emergency Maternity Home (night and day service); one visiting nurse (in care of mental case 8 days, visited fracture case (9 days); five nurse (day duty) Emergency Hospital (4 general work, one out patient dressings); two nurses (night duty) Emergency Hospital. Daily routine was followed in full in these details the night of September 23, when the Emergency Hospital was closed. Six patients remained and they were cared for by day and night nurses in temporary quarters in the hospital annex. All nurses were relieved from duty at noon, September 26, and at that time there were but three patients remaining to be turned over to the local caretakers.

UNIT TAKES CHARGE

2. The Emergency Hospital was turned over to me on the morning of September 13, when I relieved Dr. Sheldon, U. S. N. Thereafter it was fully under the care of the Shanghai Unit until it closed. The actual care of the patients fell to Dr. Selmon. His work was conscientious and highly creditable. When he was relieved, at his own request, to go to Tokio on the 21st, Dr. Colbert took his place.

Summary: Capacity of Emergency Hospital—56 Beds: Average number of beds occupied during 11 days Shanghai Unit was in charge—37 Beds: Total number of bed patients—75. About a half-dozen nationalities were represented but no Japanese. In addition to this service the Unit treated a considerable number of ambulance cases in dispensary service outside of the hospital. The total number thus treated was approximately 80 and about 20 attended each day.

The variety of injuries may be shown by mentioning compound fracture (minor), simple fracture, lacerated wounds, contusions mostly general, burns shock, hysteria, gastro-intestinal disturbances, extensive furunculosis, etc. I would again call your attention to the fact that none of our cases were seriously or dangerously injured and I repeat what I said in one of my other reports that this earthquake was a merciful cataclysm as it killed outright, by crush or fire, its victims as a general rule. When the dispensary was closed there were about 20 cases remaining which require dressings. Of these there were only two which will probably require long treatment. I arranged for their care at a dressing station which will be manned by volunteer workers.

3. One physician was assigned to outside duties. Dr. Dunn's advent while in passing through Kobe was of great assistance as he furnished us with a careful survey of the general health conditions of Kobe, particularly with reference to the large number of refugees which were passing through or billeted in the town. Dr. J. W. Colbert was made a member of the Unit of September 15, and was detailed to outside service, visiting sick and injured refugees who were not quartered in the Emergency Hospital. This included visits to the sick billeted in private homes, visits to each steamer coming in from Yokohama which carried refugees, and to the refugee home of Shaiyo. This work demanded constant attention and good judgment. He also kept in touch with health conditions in general in Kobe.

4. When the Shanghai Unit arrived in Kobe the care of refugees was in the hands of the local earthquake Relief Committee aided and supplemented by the U. S. Navy. Its care was to the foreign refugees only as the Japanese were taking care of theirs completely. Captain Freeman, U. S. N., was the senior officer present in charge of all naval work and the control of supplies. Under Captain Freeman was Dr. Warner, U. S. N. and with him I worked in the closest co-operation until the Navy was ordered away on Sept. 21. Dr. Warner was on the ground two days ahead of the Shanghai Unit, and was sitting with the Earthquake Relief Committee at its meetings to report on medical conditions. Shortly after our arrival I was asked to join him at the committee meetings and after his departure I was the only medical man attending them. The arrangement kept the Relief Committee fully posted as to medical conditions at all times and seemed to give satisfaction to the members of the Committee.

5. The work of the Unit has not ceased with our departure from Kobe as we have aboard this vessel two refugees bound for Shanghai under our general care and supervision. Both patients are British subjects, one Mr. Cave, who was Vice-Consul at Yokohama and who was badly hurt. The other, Mr. Duncan, was a patient at the Yokohama General Hospital at the time of the earthquake.

6. Dr. W. W. Peter has been of great service to this Unit when present in giving me from time to time sage advice and to the Unit strong moral support. His activities in a wider field have been of great value in the emergency. He will report to you directly as to that.

In submitting this last comprehensive report I wish to recommend to you the excellent work which has been done by every member of the Unit. A somewhat long experience in human contacts and a fair share of responsibilities in other fields lends some weight to my statement that I have never before been associated with men and women who have given more of themselves or in better spirit than this Unit. I consider it an honor to have been placed in charge of it.

I am, Sir, with respect,
Very truly yours,
Morris Booth Miller.
In charge, Shanghai Unit American Red Cross.

Parents Are Often Puzzled

to know what medicine to give their little ones. The child falls sick with griping pains, vomiting diarrhoea, croup; or suddenly gets feverish, screams for no apparent cause, refuses food or vomits up what it has eaten. What is to be done on such occasions As often as not there is no suitable medicine in the house, or only Castor Oil, which naturally every child regards with abhorrence.

It is to meet exactly such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets have been designed. These pleasant tasteless little Tablets quickly reduce fever, relieve constipation and colic, stop vomiting, check diarrhoea, remedy indigestion, ease colds and croup, expel worms, allay teething pains as if by magic, quiet the nerves and bring calm restful health-restoring sleep.

Chemists sell Baby's Own Tablets or post free, 60 the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Electrically Cooked 'Eats' On Deck Today

The 'Electric Chef' will prepare Westinghouse Waffles and 'Turnover' toast especially for Shanghai housewives, and give a demonstration of how easy and economical it is to cook by 'wire'.

No one else had ever put money into the company, ha with the exception of $2,100 had been loaned the company by Mr. John Woodberry, a missionary and his wife, Mrs. Ethel Woodberry. The Woodberry's were going to take stock in the company for the money, he said, but it had had a dispute and he had given them all their money back except $500, which was still in dispute.

Captain Kearney said that he had put $12,000 in the now defunct company, and that he had put $14,000 of his wife's money in the same venture. Capt. Kearney also denied that Roth and Mayer had ever been given any stock in the company or been made directors. He had promised them five shares of stock each when the company was reorganised, he said, but because the Woodberry's refused to sign off the stock books because of the dispute, the company had never been reorganised.

Mr. C. S. Franklin, Kearney's attorney, then took the stand and, questioned by Mr. Sidney Moss, said that no stock had ever been issued to anyone, that he knew that Roth and Mayer had been promised shares but they had never been given any, that they were not directors of the company, and that the company had never been reorganised after the Woodberry's dropped out. Mr. Franklin said that he was not a director in the company but was to have held some stock as trustee for Captain Kearney's five-year old adopted daughter.

Judge Lobingier took the matter of the bankruptcy proceedings under advisement.

POLICE ARREST ARMED ROBBER AFTER HOLD-UP

Quick work by the police resulted in the arrest of four armed robbers who held up Chinese premises at 164 East Yuhang Road Sunday night. The men, one armed with a revolver, entered the premises while the inmates were playing mah jongg, according to police testimony. They got only $4 and a few coppers and when the victims raised an alarm two of the robbers were arrested. Information secured from these led to the arrest of the other two. Mr. S. Moss appeared for the accused at the Mixed Court yesterday and asked a remand until Friday, which was granted by Assessor Whitamore and Magistrate Li.

Two other armed robberies were reported over the week-end. One occurred in a wine shop in Amoy Road Sunday morning, when four armed men got away with about $350. The other was staged Saturday night at 13 Sinza Road, where two men, one carrying a pistol, took a pair of bangles valued at $90 from a woman inmate.

It's a Preferred Picture

A slice of throbbing life, simple but dramatic. A story of peace heroes. A tale of valor and sacrifice performed far from the field of battle.

Heroism without the heroics!

THE WHOLE TOWN TURNED OUT TO GREET HIM—

He was a hero from the tip of his toes to the top of his new hat, while his brother Andy plugged along selling insurance during the day and bathed his falling arches at night. Then there was a fire in the school, the children were trapped—there was a temptation to steal Five Hundred Dollars. Blended with this is a gripping romance.

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ⅛d. in London on Saturday. The New York price advanced to 64⅜ cents and the London-New York cross rate declined to 454¾.

Our official Sterling rate here today was raised to 3s. 1d., the Gold Dollar rate to 70¼, the Yen rate dropped to 70¼ and the other rates changed accordingly.

Our market here in the morning was steady, there being sellers of Sterling at 3s. 1⅛d. for October delivery, 3s. 1⅛d. November and 3s. 1⅛d. December.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the same time at 70⅝ for near and forward deliveries, and sellers of Yen at 69.

In the afternoon, however, speculators were buyers and the market eased off slightly closing with no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 1⅛d. October, 3s. 1⅛d. November and 3s. 1d. December.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 70⅜ for near and forward deliveries and of Yen at 69¼.

Banks were quoting 3s. 1¾d., 72¼ and 1180 for Sterling, Gold Dollar and Franc bills respectively.

India bought silver in London on Saturday and the Continent and China sold, the market closing somewhat easy. There was no business done in the New York market.

Our last report was dated September 21.

The market for all descriptions is very quiet. Silkmen generally seem disposed in many instances to make some concessions, but at the moment little interest is being displayed by consuming markets where speculators are likely unloading cheap purchases, and until these are disposed of our market will rule quiet. The markets likewise are awaiting some definite information regarding the position of the Japan market.

"The perfection of art can only be attained by first perfecting the instruments therefor."—Sayings of Confucius.

EXTRACT FROM EXPERT REPORT:

"Having visited most of the cement factories of Great Britain, America and Europe, I am in a position to form an opinion of the relative merits and faults of each.....but my experiences lead me to the conclusion that 'pride of place' must unquestionably be given to the Holderbank Factory in Switzerland .....In design and construction it is a model without rival in any country." W. H. Brown, A. M. I. Mech. E., leading authority in England on cement manufacturing.

The Wisdom of the ancient Sage and the technical experiences of a modern authority on cement manufacturing have guided us to instal a set of machinery in our Lungwha Works which is an exact model of the one used by the Holderbank factory, Switzerland, and supplied by the original patentees with numerous latest improvements. The cement we are now supplying our customers is the product of that "perfect instrument."

Watch Russia

THE action of the Russian Soviet Government in turning down the appeal of the German Communists for help to turn Germany Bolshevik, and in declaring that it is wholly engaged in affairs of reconstruction at home and does not contemplate action elsewhere advances Russia a long step towards recognition by other Powers.

But there are other indications that recognition is drawing nearer. It is significant that unofficial observers—business men, politicians, relief administrators—returning from Russia these days give almost unanimous testimony to the already developing Russian renaissance, a renaissance which is carrying the Nation away from that type of political activity that first led to its international ostracism, and toward a well-ordered government worthy of acceptance among democratic peoples. Nor, again, is this evidence a mere tribute to the cleverness of Soviet guides who daub with rosy hues the general ugliness and send visitors back to their home lands convinced that at last they have found the end of the rainbow. Foremost anti-Soviets of the most irreconcilable sort bear witness to this regenerative movement now going on in Russia.

Boris A. Bakhmeteff, Kerensky Ambassador from Russia to the United States, in conducting a round table on Russian affairs at the Institute of Politics in America, just concluded, paid frequent tribute to the new Russia which is emerging. His condemnation of the Soviets left nothing to be desired. But despite the Soviets, Mr. Bakhmeteff sees, on the east European horizon, a Russian renaissance—a cloud the size of a man's hand—from which he predicts a United States of Russia, founded on the ideal of service, and governed on democratic fundamentals by the awakened peasants. "These peasants," he declares with unmistakable authority, "have learned to stand up and speak for their rights. Never again will they submit to autocracy."

This peasant-directed renaissance, according to Mr. Bakhmeteff, has already changed the general situation in Russia. Many of his friends—professional men who have remained in Russia—were trying desperately to get out two years ago. Today, he declares these same men cannot be persuaded to leave. Developments are coming so rapidly and are of such great significance they are unwilling to forfeit the opportunity to watch them and have a hand in their shaping.

Among recent arrivals in America from Russia, certainly none is better qualified to speak regarding present conditions than Col. William N. Haskell, U.S.A., for two years director of the American relief administration in Russia. He bears witness to developments similar to those outlined by Mr. Bakhmeteff. Speaking to the Washington correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor he declared that conditions had been so far stabilised in Russia that there is no longer governmental interference in private business; that the Government is carried on by the Council of the People's Commissaries, or cabinet lines, and apparently in a spirit of excellent teamwork; and, further, that conditions have so far returned to normal that the country has this year from 50 to 70 percent of its pre-war acreage under cultivation, and, according to Colonel Haskell's own estimate, will have a surplus of at least 2,000,000 tons of cereals to send abroad.

The basis, perhaps, for complete recognition of the Russian Government is not to be found in these evidences of a returning life. Definite pledges as to private property and the suspension of international Communistic propaganda are still lacking. But there are signs of progress which cannot be gainsaid. It will pay to closely watch Russia!

Gold Wanted

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

The title to this article is due to two advertisements in a dignified metropolitan newspaper. One follows;

PERSONAL — ADOPTION — American-born girl, 16 years, healthy, talented, sunny disposition, excellent horsewoman, fond of outdoor sports, musical; father of high British descent, mother of Austrian noble family; unhappy under present reduced circumstances, wishes adoption by wealthy family of unquestioned reputation. Address, etc., etc.

One wishes to resist the temptation to be flippant. But at least one may say that it is a decidedly dramatic turn of fortune's wheel that makes a scion of European titled aristocracy the frank advertiser for the hitherto despised American money in order that the young lady may live in the material circumstances to which she has been accustomed.

On the other hand, one likes to commend the high human bravery which has enabled so many other humbled aristocrats of the various dismantled courts to prove their true nobility and somehow to earn their daily bread.

It gives one renewed faith in the human stuff, when the spoiled of the earth show the shining courage that enables them to defy defeat and loss of social station.

As it is better to have loved and lost, so it is surer proof of essential richness of spirit to be able to maintain selfrespect and to achieve selfsupport after the fall from a lofty pinnacle of parasitic well-being than never to have known aristocratic parasitism.

One wishes, therefore, that the noble young lady had advertised for suitable work rather than for continued dependence through adoption.

Five years from now she would be better off.

Here's the other curiously dramatic advertisement:

PRINCESSE, advanced in years, last of line with no heirs, desires to perpetuate title and will legally adopt American, conferring thereby inalienable title; one of the principal European Kingdoms; title absolutely authentic, dating back to Eighth Century; person adopted must possess culture and refinement, be of unquestioned reputation and have means commensurate with highest social position.

Instead of making fun of this advertisement, dear reader, please drop a sympathetic tear.

Then, if you choose, sigh sententiously: "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity!"

But, best of all, ask yourself how nearly, money aside, you might deserve to be adopted by La Princesse. After all, she asks for a decidedly desirable adoptee.

Anyhow, it is up to you to prove your American title the patent of the highest nobility and not to be measured in gold.

Except that one cannot suddenly adopt an aristocratic ancestry, there is no reason why we should not adopt the ideals of nobility, indicated in these advertisements and others commonly accepted everywhere by folks of gentle breeding, and graft them upon our sturdy American type of worthy man and woman.

The title of that type needs no "adoption" money for its maintenance. And it needs not be "perpetuated," for it can by each of us be newly acquired—and improved.

Pa Jongg sez that one of the traits that leads to ultimate success is concentrate.

BOXES

By Gerve Barontl

I have seen sad sights in China; the land where we came for gold. I have watched sad scenes more wretched than any that pen has told. But of all the sights that's racked me where sorrows come in flocks, are one lone 'ricksha, "a string of joss" and one unpainted box. This was your funeral procession, the best that your kin could do: and lucky all things considered, to be able to see that through. They got you a three-dollar coffin by stinting themselves on rice. By letting work rob the sleep hours they managed to eke out the price. And they took you away to plant you, but I lost sight of you then. Turned my attention to business and pursuits of foreign men. But why should a coolie's passing give me a moments thought? in a land of unending coolies, whose hopes are fed on nought but toil for a thankless master, who hordes that he may ride in a painted box with silver, wreaths, flowers, and a lot beside. Why should the plain unpainted box heap me with pity round more than the silver-trimmed painted box that offers grace to the ground? I wonder why the mind of man sheds pity on stark bare wood, withholding the same from varnish and paint? This has never been understood. But something augments our sorrow, something our reason mocks. That grieves much more for stainless wood than for the painted box.

Etymology, A Key To English

It has been asserted that if a skillful palaeontologist be given a single fossil bone, his knowledge of anatomy will enable him to go synthetically reproduce the remainder of the animal's frame as to show an approximately correct representation of the original—from the huge glyptodon, with its tesselated coat of mail, down to the smallest of the vertebrata. It has been said also that if all existing libraries were destroyed, and historical records of every kind obliterated, yet, if the English language were left to man, the patient etymologist would be able to reconstruct, from the essence of the words themselves, a history of mankind that would fall little short of our existing knowledge of its main features.

Without inquiring too closely into the accuracy of these statements, it may be conceded that the study of words in their various stages of inception, growth, apparent extinction, and not infrequent resurrection constitutes an intensely interesting and illuminative occupation. Etymology is a veritable "Open, Sesame!"

Notwithstanding the great admixture of alien words resulting from the composite nature of the English language, we cannot for a moment escape the fact that Anglo-Saxon is predominantly the basis of it. The dictionary, which has been styled the language at rest, gives the percentage of Anglo-Saxon words as only 60, while in composition or conversation, which may be called language in motion, the average is considerably higher. In the English Bible there is a vocabulary of 6000 words, in Milton 8000, in Shakespeare 15,000. Milton's complete vocabulary "at rest" contains only 38 percent of Anglo-Saxon; but "in motion," in his most famous work, "Paradise Lost," he uses 80, and in another, "L'Allegro," 90 percent. Shakespeare "at rest" contains 60 percent; "in motion" he uses 88 to 91 percent. The words in the Bible Concordance give 60 percent "at rest," while "in motion" the percentage is from 90 to 96. Mrs. Eddy's well-known hymn, "Shepherd, Show Me How to Go," uses 90 percent. A passage taken at random from the editorial page of The Christian Science Monitor of July 28 showed a percentage of 73. The reason for the difference of "rest" and "motion" percentage lies in the fact that, while Greek and Latin furnish many a polished stone and carved capital, Anglo-Saxon supplies the supporting framework of the structure, the great rafters and the small joints, the cement and mortar which bind all into a perfect whole. In other words, it is on the frame of an Anglo-Saxon grammar that foreign words are declined and conjugated, while the cement and mortar are represented by the vast number of small words and particles, of Saxon origin.

Apart from an analysis of the language of the classics, words of all sorts that will repay investigation are met with in ordinary speech. Such a phrase as "to cap the climax" gains added force when it is realised that "climax" is simply the Greek name for "ladder" or "stairway," and to cap (caput, head) the climax is thus to crown what is already uppermost, or, perhaps, to beat a record. The word "insect," if you think of its origin (insecare, to cut in) is fully descriptive. English teems with words of this caliber. Each one has a past—which implies a history, if it can be reached. Take the word "history" in the last sentence. In its dignified sense it refers to real events: in its shorter form, "story," the events are imaginary. It is peculiar that while in English a child who fibs "tells stories," in French he also "fait des histoires." To find two words coming from the same Latin root is a common occurrence. Those which reach us through the French generally have a shorter form than those adopted at a later period, and they are placed first in the following examples: Sure, secure (Lat., securus); fealty, fidelity (fidelitas); blame, blaspheme (blasphemare); treason, tradition (tradere); ravin, rapine (rapere); loyal, legal (lex); caitiff, captive (capere). Double forms from Anglo-Saxon roots also abound, as: drag, draw; girdle, kirtle; shale, scale; skiff, ship; tenth, tithe; spray, sprig; wise, guise; warden, guardian; black, bleach.

Names of places are interesting when they are to the reader something more than meaningless syllables arbitrarily strung together. When Boston is dissected it becomes "St. Botolph's town;" Nova Zembla means the "New World," and gives food for thought; the Roman name of Coblenz was Confluentes, because it is at the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle; Holland, the Netherlands, the Pays-Bas and the Low Countries all mean the same; Teplitz means "a warm place;" Cienfuegos, "a hundred fires;" Canterbury, "the borough of Kentish men" (Kent, from cant, a corner, forms the southeast corner of England); Mostar, "Old Bridge" (over the Narenta); Herzegovina, "a duchy;" Kafiristan, "land of the Kafirs" (Arabic for "unbelievers)." Pen and Ben (hill) are much used in such names as: Penrhyn, Penzance, Ben Nevis, Ben Lomond. Chester as a termination indicates in Britain castra or fortified places occupied by the Romans. Edinburgh is Edwin's burgh.

Some names of persons indicate their meaning clearly, as Lily, Hope, Felix, but most are to most folk mere handles, while some have striking significance. Winifred is "a lover of peace;" Walter, "a ruler of the host;" Seth, "compensation;" Amos, "strong, courageous;" Andrew, "robust, manly;" Brian, "intrepid;" Cecil, "short-sighted, blind;" Margaret, "a pearl;" David, "a proud chief;" Humphrey, "protector of the home;" Helen, "light;" Frank, "free;" Frederick, "a peaceful ruler;" George, "a tiller of the soil;" Eva, "life;" John, "the grace of God;" Joyce, "sportive;" Kenneth, "a leader;" Laurence, "crowned with laurel;" Charles "strong and manly;" Luke, "light;" Mabel, "lovable;" Lionel, "a young lion;" Matthew, "a gift of the Lord;" Joshua, "the Lord is his help;" Reginald, "a strong ruler;" Roderick, "rich in fame;" Sarah, "a princess;" Paul, "little;" Patrick, "noble;" Naomi, "my delight;" Ptolemy, "mighty in war;" Edward, "a noble guard."

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

It seemed as if the scarlet tanagers and cardinal birds, the blue-jays and gold-winged orioles, the flamingo, the peacock, the parrot were going to be leaders of fashion this last summer. It seemed as if the only thing a bird without bright colored plumage could do was simply to give up hope of being in the mode—and the only thing you or I could do was to buy and wear brigh' colored clothes whether we found them becoming or not.

And now, by way of a reaction against so much bright color, the magpie has come back into fashion.

You may not have realised that this tendency toward the black and white combination was coming until you chanced to look into the display window of some smart shop to see every frock and wrap and hat and accessory there displayed black or white. This display of the magpie combination that has been made by several of the smart shops is not merely the result of a whim or the desire to be different. It is the result of a very definite and quite recent vogue for black and white that has come as a reaction against too much color.

We have had colors early and late. We have danced and dined in gay color. Our sport clothes have been the match of Joseph's coat, our negligees have been like the rainbow. We have worn gay hats for tea, and some of us have worn shoes and carried handbags of bright red, blue or green. The thing has been getting on our nerves. We aren't quite primitive enough to be able to stand it. And so we've been getting ourselves into a propr frame of mind for black and white.

A frock recently shown by one of the cleverest American dressmakers was of black georgette with a twisted girdle of black and white. Another black frock comes into the magpie category by means of a white lace collar and jabot.

The sketch shows a black georgette frock with the usual plaited skirt and straight smooth bodice. The note of distinction is in the diamond-shape motifs of white lace, applied to the skirt and the bodice.

There are evening slippers of the black and white combination that are worn with the all-white frock, or even with the colored frock, and, of course, the handkerchief of the moment for the evening is made of sheerest white linen with trimming of black lace.

RILEY'S LUCK

Riley was a lazy fellow
Never worked a bit;
All day long in some store corner
On a chair he'd sit.

Never talked much — too much trouble—
Tired his jaws, you see;
When his folks got out of victuals,
"Just my luck!" says he.

Fellow offered him ten dollars
If he'd work two days;
Riley crossed his legs and looked up
Through the sun's hot rays;
Then he leaned back in the shadow,
Sadly shook his head;
"Never asked me till hot weather—
"Just my luck!", he said.

Riley courted Sally Hopkins
In a quiet way;
When he saw Jim Dobson kiss her,
"Just my luck!" he'd say.
Leap year came, and Mandy Perkins
Sought his company;
Riley sighed, and married Mandy—
"Just my luck!" he said.

Riley took his wife out fishing
In a little boat;
Storm blew up and turned them over;
Mandy couldn't float
Riley sprang into the river,
Seized her by the hair,
Swam a mile into the shore where
Friends pulled out the pair.

Mandy was so full of water
Seemed she'd surely die;
Doctors worked with her for hours
Ere she moved an eye.
They told Riley she was better;
Doctors were in glee.
Riley chewed an old pine splinter—
"Just my luck!" says he.

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

GOOD NIGHT

Just a crossed telephone line—I was trying to get a drug store on the wire—and I heard a woman's voice, soft and cooing:

"Good night, dear!"

There was an answering grunt, a distinct male grunt. And that is all I know about it.

I've been wondering whether he had a good night. Whether he slept soundly and well with untroubled conscience. Or whether he passed an unhappy night.

"How beautiful is night!" sang the English poet, Southey. "Night's ghastly gloom!" sang the English poet, Mulock. And between them you may take your choice.

We wish one another a good night, with the glibness of conventionality. What is a good night? A dreamless sleep? Or sleep in which the mind lives in the elysian fields?

It surely cannot be a night of restless tossing, of phantasmal worries or of tormenting nightmares.

The night follows the day. And in the long run a good night can only follow a good day. An unhealthy day ends in an unhealthy night. A day of worry ends in a night of worry. A day of wrong ends in a night of remorse. So that, taking it all in all, when you wish a person "good night" you wish him or her a succession of happy days.

At night the normal body's tension relaxes. The mystery sleep is still impenetrable, but we know it is Nature's hour for restoring what we have wasted. The only thing that interferes with Nature's beneficent intention is our mind. And that organ keeps working.

It works in wakefulness and it works in sleep. It struggles to solve the problems which burden it. This struggle runs a wide gamut—all the way from insomnia, during which both mind and body refuse to rest, to that fitful succession of troubled dreams which, sometimes, is worse than protracted wakefulness.

A healthy night's sleep is one of the greatest joys of life. Night hours of slumber, untroubled by dreams, by worries, by conscious or subconscious grappling with the problems of love or business or ambition, is all that a human being can desire.

Because, to enjoy it throughout life, one must so order one's days that as the sun sets upon each one no residue of regret or sorrow or unhappiness laps over into the night.

This is not always easy. We are largely creatures of circumstances over which we have no control. But it is an end worth striving for.

The next time you wish any one "Good night," just pause to think of the great blessing that you are invoking. And try to get as much as you can of it for yourself.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

Much that I want I cannot have;
the past will not return;
The cash I need is always more,
by far, than I can earn;
If I could have what I would choose, reporters, day by day,
Would come to me for interviews;
my ventures all would pay;
But, if I cannot claim
The joys of wealth and fame
I still have reason now and then for feeling rather gay.

I do not have to worry when the prince falls from his horse
At bedtime I am not compelled to climb in with remorse;
No ships of mine may sink at sea though wildly winds may blow;
No weary mother's blaming me
because her larder's low;
It doesn't worry me at all
When stock quotations rise or fall;
The streams are flowing downward still, and I say let 'em flow.

I choose my faith to suit myself, I wear no party yoke;
I'm not a man, I'm glad to say,
who never sees a joke;
I haven't ceased to carp to-day and when the weather's fine
I always like it just that way; it seems a lucky sign.
And I am not inclined to care
What others think or what they wear,
Or how they have their fun if they don't interfere with mine.

We have heard a lot about the old-fashioned spring, but we don't know anybody who ever saw one.

ANNOUNCEMENT
DEL MONTE'S
NEW POLICY

Beginning Monday, October 1, the Del Monte cafe will inaugurate a new plan of operation.

First of all we are going to make a specialty of Del Monte dinners. Victor Galvin, the Del Monte chef, will prepare these dinners personally; no Chinese cooks will be allowed near the range.

There will be music and entertainment during the dinner hours, from 7.30 to 9.30 o'clock

There will be no charge for admission; no tickets for dancing; no compulsion for anybody to spend money except of his own free will.

For the convenience of those of our patrons who wish to dance, but who have no partners, Del Monte will provide thirtyfive capable and experienced young women dancers.

Del Monte will continue to serve liquid refreshments, as before, but we have added a new, NON-INTOXICATING beverage to be known as the

"DEL MONTE CUP"

This drink, we feel sure, will make a decided "hit" with our patrons.

The famous Del Monte entertainment features, including the GRAND BALLET, will be continued. The "Big Show" each evening will be put on at 11 o'clock, but there will be entertainment all during the evening, starting at dinner.

With these changes we believe DEL MONTE will continue its old popularity and gain many new friends in addition. With a good orchestra, good food and the finest entertainment features in the East we feel sure fhat the new will continue to meet Shanghai's demand for a real center of diversion and entertainment.
